As a leading clothing company, we're doing our part to support Ukraine in a number of ways

We have, thus far, sent over 16,000 jumpers to the battlefields to provide soldiers with much-needed warmth and protection from the elements. Our special line of clothing is dedicated to raising awareness of the war, and all of its proceeds go to the organizations helping Ukraine in its fight for freedom.

What's more, we are equally committed to supporting the Ukrainian economy by working closely with local companies to provide them with steady orders, job security, and financial stability in these unprecedented times.

Despite many challenges, we continue to carry out production in Ukraine without interruption, demonstrating our unwavering commitment to our partners. We proudly support RADAROM, a groundbreaking initiative that raises funds to buy monitors the airspace around strategically important infrastructure, such as power plants and water towers, that make life possible for Ukrainians during the war. We encourage other companies to do their part toward a speedy resolution to this heartbreaking conflict.
